Weather Bureau Will Be Located On Local Campus

Roemer To Have Charge
Of Station On
B. E. Roof

The weather bureau installed by the school board on top of the board of education building will be operated by Charles Roemer under the direction and supervision of H. O. Russel, physics and aviation instructor.

Installed for the purpose of giving jaysee students practice and experience in handling the various instruments, the weather bureau will furnish information about local conditions to the newspapers, the farm bureau, and the Chamber of Commerce.

Weather forecasting will not be attempted, but it is believed by the jaysee engineering department, that much valuable and interesting information will be secured by a study of local peculiarities and conditions.

The equipment, amounting to about four hundred dollars, that has been installed, consists of a rain gauge, a wind velocity gauge, a maximum and minimum temperature thermometer, a dew point and relative humidity thermometer, a recording thermometer, and a recording barometer. The engineering department is working on and hopes to install an instrument that will record the hours of sunshine.

The intention is to operate the weather bureau the year around. Charles Roemer will take daily observations during the school term and a janitor will record observations during the summer months.

Results of Journalism Class Survey Told

As a result of a class survey conducted last Monday it was found that journalism students at Santa Ana represent nearly every section of the country. Of the 26 students enrolled in the beginning journalism class only ten are native-born Californians.

The survey, conducted at the first meeting of the class showed that two students were born in New York, two in Kansas, two in Illinois, and one in Nebraska, while Africa held claim to one. Other mid-western and western states are also represented here.

College Comment

By John Rabe

Credit for the most amusing incident of the week goes to the unknown, stentorian-voiced, dirty-faced, four-year-old, who, upon seeing the engine of President Roosevelt's special train slide into the local railroad station this week proclaimed in a voice heard all over East Santa Ana, "GANGWAY! Here comes the Government!"

Another impression received while disinterestedly viewing the kaleidoscopic turn of events last Tuesday was the adroit manner in which F. D. R. played upon the foibles of the great American public. These baby kissing gags are old, but they still work. No doubt the extreme glibness of Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Voter will put many good votes in the Rooseveltian credit column.

Voters—What Now?

Defeat of the $180,000 school bonds last week causes one to wonder how the fickle fancy of the voters will turn today. According to recent news the $6,620,000 "pork barrel" water bonds are practically assured passage. Circulars extolling one and all to "VOTE NO" on "Ham" Cotton's liquid project are being distributed throughout the county, but it is doubtful if the good that these may do will offset the tremendous total that will result when most of the farmers of this vicinity cast their ballot. It is universally granted that those good men and women will cast a "yes" ballot.

In connection with the water bonds, I wonder if the national powers that be realize to what an extent the expansion and work relief program of the President is being used to put the bonds over. It is extremely doubtful if as many dollars will be saved, or as many men be put to work as those lucid advertisements proclaim.

The Truth—So Help Me

Credit for the most unintelligent action of 1935 goes to the female freshman who, upon hearing that all frosh were required to carry a "bible" purchased same from a local bookstore. When asked to explain her action she dismissed the incident with a philosophic shrug of her shoulders and made some remark about starting in Sunday school now. If education is what she wants, the Old Testament will give it to her. Especially Genesis.

Jaysee Reporter Interviews Earhart

(Reprinted from Orange News)

By Walter Bandick

Should I try it or not? Did I have the nerve, or was I going to let a good looking young lady with a goyish bob and brown slacks and a striped sweater scare me out? There she was, just ten feet away, calmly sitting in a red cabin plane with no one around... a chance of a life time, and I was faint hearted.

These were some of the thoughts that pounded my head yesterday afternoon after I had been standing in the same spot for about 20 minutes, trying to get up nerve to interview Miss Amelia Earhart, famous aviatrix, who was the first of her sex to cross the ocean by plane. Finally giving a hasty glance about me to be sure that no one was watching, I tried to act nonchalant as I slowly shuffled over to the large red monoplane in which she was seated. Sticking my head through one of the apertures which served as a winnow, I felt my heart pounding like a model-T Ford, and the interview followed something like this:

ME: "I've been standing here for about an hour trying to get up nerve to talk to you, and I'm supposed to get an interview for the Orange News, but I'm scared to death and I wonder if you'd mind, and..."

Miss Earhart (cutting in with a reassuring smile): "Why there's nothing to be afraid of. What would you like to know?"

Me (gaining confidence): "Well I really don't know what to ask... hmmm let me see... how long have you been flying, Miss Earhart?"

Amelia: "Since 1921."

Me (after prolonged silence which I decided must be broken): "What are you doing here today, anyhow?"

Miss Earhart: "I am what is called an official observer. Howard Hughes is going to make a test flight in his mystery plane this afternoon and I and Paul Mantz, my manager, and Larry Therkelson are going up in my plane to see that he stays beneath 1200 feet during the test."

Me (deciding she was probably getting tired of me): "Well, I guess I had better be running along. By the way could you give me an autograph, if I furnished the pencil and paper?"

She: "Certainly. Just don't tell anyone else," (with smile.)

Me (excitedly fumbling for my pencil): "Now wouldn't it be funny if I forgot my pencil?"

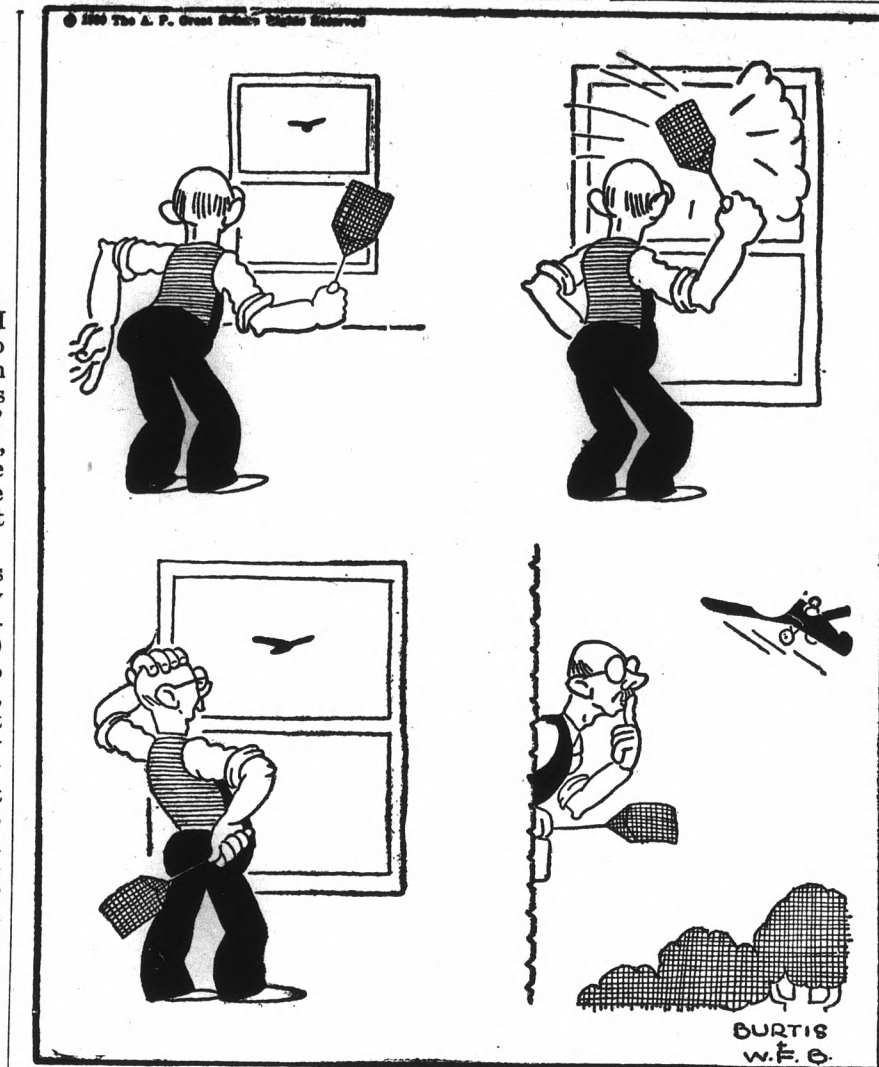

She: "It certainly would. I don't have one either."

Unable to find a pencil in my pocket, I hastily excused myself, ran up to the nearest scribe and grabbed a pencil from his pocket, returning to the red plane at a gallop. Miss Earhart neatly signs her name across a folded piece of copy paper I fished from my pocket and returns it to me.

Me: "Gee, thanks a lot, I just want to prove to the guys at the office that I really interviewed you."

She: "My signature won't prove anything, will it?"

Stumped for a better reply, I mumbled something about "Let's

Laugh With Leacock by Stephen Leacock, published by Dodd, Mead & Company.

The best way to know Leacock is to read his books, but Ellis Parker Butler, himself a well-known humorist, wrote a word picture of him that might offer an incentive to interested readers. "Stephen Leacock's humor is like a well-woven Scotch plaid," Mr. Butler writes, "—honest and comfortable and satisfying, and all-fired funny when worn as a knee-length kilt for a college professor to do jigs in. Leacock is our premier parodist."

Laugh With Leacock is an anthology of the best of the author's numerous works. In each short sketch he has brought out some characteristic foible of human nature, from a tendency to exaggerate the results of a day's fishing to the present trend of children's stories toward a pink-tea era. He even discusses this comparatively whiskerless age in his essay, "The Restoration of Whiskers, a Neglected Factor in the Decline of Knowledge," and "The Laundry Problem," loudly bewailing the disappearance of the old-fashioned washerwoman who had not the foresight to tear a button off a shirt or bite a hole in the collar.

hope they believe it anyway," and hurried away with the precious paper tightly clenched in my fist, my fist deep down in my pocket.

A few minutes later when I came to a little more, I think of all the swell questions I could have asked her such as. "Do you like spinach? What do you think of the Townsend Old Age Pension plan? and, what is your opinion of men that chew tobacco?"

Oh, well, I guess I wasn't born to be a reporter anyway. I had better stick to getting autographs.

TROBABES INVADE LOCAL GRIDIRON TONIGHT

Lookin' 'Em Over

By Johnny Henry

Those schedule makers are at it again.

They seem to have no respect for school traditions this year. They have taken the traditional Donnellton Yellowjacket casaba game from its usually last place on the schedule and inserted it as a season opener early in January. Coach Bill Cook tells us that the schedules are not made out by the individual schools themselves, but are issued by the conference officials. Cook offers as a solution to the error a suggestion that he might cancel the game as scheduled and play the Yellowjackets on some last season date.

Here's the Reason

For several years the Padres have been without a grid captain and now Cook comes forward with the explanation. According to Cook, the election of a star as the next year's captain was supposed to be a means of influencing the man to return to the school for the next season. Instead of the proposition working as planned, often times the election of the man as captain would only tend to make the bigger schools want him more strongly and the men often times would not return to the school for their sophomore year.

Aside from this reason, Cook indicated that he believed that in a two year school where the turnover was so frequent a coach could never tell from one year to the next whether or not some shining freshman would come along and take the position away from the veteran of the year before.

One is Gone

The doctors that take care of the injured football men have certainly been doing a land office business the last two weeks. Among those players on the injured list are: Youel, Harnois, Bragg, and Meyers. All good players. Youel will never play another football game. Any more head injuries would probably result fatally. His loss will surely be felt.

Here and There

Santa Ana Jaysee has the unique situation of having an ex-captain as a manager of the squad in Waldo Smith. Ochoa and Spray also held similar positions on their high school teams. John Haskell, who tips the scales at 201 pounds is the heaviest man on the Padre squad. Ray Sides noses out Major Anderson by a quarter of a pound for the lightest; Sides tips the beams at 134.

Aspiring Tennesettes Reports For Practice

Responding to Coach Zena Leck's call for tennis players, S. A. C. women virtually overwhelmed Miss Leck this week when over twenty tennis aspirants reported on the courts ready to start the season.

Due to this unexpected amount of enthusiasm and the limited number of courts it was necessary to divide the group into two squads, each group meeting on a different afternoon.

New Casaba Coach Predicts Winning Team For Padres

With a host of lettermen from last year's squad as well as several aspiring freshmen from various points both in and out of the state to count on, coach Al Reboin has set the first of November as a tentative date for the start of casaba practice.

Tommy Lacy, all-conference forward; Fred Erdhaus, center; Johnny Henry, guard; and La Vern Brower, reserve center complete the list of returning lettermen from last season.

Among the former prep stars who are expected to make their bid for a position on the first string lineup are included: Leonard Lockhart, Robert Browning, and Kenneth Nissely, guard, center, and forward, respectively. They hail from Santa Ana high school.

Orange high contributes Oliver McCarter, while Tustin sends Harry Stanley and Bob Spray. Frank Ochoa hails from Anaheim and Bill Greschner from Harbor high.

Coach Reboin indicated that he has supplemented the conference schedule with several attractive practice games which should prove stiff competition. He believes that he has vast quantity of good material that should develop into potential champions.

Reboin is taking over the Casaba reins for the first time this season, having taken the place of Blanchard Beatty who has gone to Ocean Park high school.

Sports Insurance Goes To Dr. Baker

Probabilities that the athletic insurance for the year would be taken care of by means of a blanket agreement with Dr. W. P. Baker were outlined this morning by Athletic Commissioner, Alan Mackey.

The plan submitted to Dr. Baker for his approval very closely resembled that of last year, according to Mackey; however there has been some discussion about whether or not the agreement would include a clause concerning dental bills.

The pact submitted for Dr. Baker's approval did, however, include these provisions and at an early hour this morning it looked as though an agreement would be reached soon.

Basketball Courts To Be Constructed

New basketball courts will be constructed behind the gymnasium in order to accommodate the large girl's freshman gym classes Director D. K. Hammond announced today.

The courts are to be constructed on the large cement square just west of the Y. M. C. A. building and Mr. Hammond stated that the work would begin immediately. As

GRIDLITES

(Note: The following are two of a series of comments that will appear from week to week on members of the jaysee football squad.)

DICK MOORE.

Dick Moore is a letterman from the 1934 squad, weighs 165 pounds, and plays fullback. One of the shiftiest ball packers from Huntington Beach and when you see those lengthy gains and line jabs, its probably Moore with the leather under his wing.

WALT HICKMAN.

An all-conference player of last year's team Walt Hickman, former Garden Grove high school star, possesses all the tactics of a polished backfield ace. He is a rugged defensive player, and an excellent blocker, weighs 180, and judging from his many lengthy boots has an educated steel toe. Perhaps a reason for Walt's success is that he eats, sleeps and thinks football.

New Yell Leaders Appointed By Roemer

President Charles Roemer stated this morning that the appointment of cheer leaders for the present football season had been made by himself using the results of the different teams in their tryouts at the assembly last Tuesday as a basis for the choice.

The team picked includes Marjorie Sawyer, Betty Lee, 'Gus' Gilbert, and Johnny Henry. Both Gilbert and Henry were cheer leaders last year at the jaysee and Misses Lee and Sawyer served as leaders while in Santa Ana high school.

Los Gauchos Plan Club Sports

According to Harris Warren, newly installed president of Los Gauchos, men's service club, the organization will help to sponsor the Penny Fair, usher at basketball games, and plan to inaugurate inter-club sports.

Other officers in addition to Warren installed at a meeting held last week were: Lewis Wetherell, vice-president; Nolan Hasson, secretary; Kenneth Nissley, treasurer; and Ray Foster, sergeant-at-arms.

Harry P. Jackson, was introduced as the new Gaucho adviser.

Tennis Aspirants To Play Matches In School Tryouts

That doubles tournament for both men, women, and mixed teams are being organized from the students in the recreational tennis classes was revealed this morning by coach Reboin.

Reboin believes that in this way students may not only improve their style, but also enjoy playing because of the spirit of competition. The tournaments will probably take about two months to run to completion.

Many of the sections of recreational tennis classes have been closed to enrollment because of the great number of students enrolled for the course, there being over 75 students enrolled in the various sections.

Coaches Call For Golf Enthusiasts

Efforts are being made to organize a class in beginning golf, according to word released by Coach Bill Cook this morning. The plan as submitted by Preston Piper, captain of the varsity golf team, contains two alternatives. They include the plan of renting time on the local driving range and the construction of a driving range behind college hall.

The instruction of the students is to be done by members of the varsity golf squad and will include all the basic principles of driving and other shots, Piper indicated.

Cook requests that all prospective student students get in touch with Piper soon.

Goal Post Decorations Handled By Lions

Permission has been granted the Junior Lions to decorate the goal posts at all home games, Charles Roemer, Associated Student president announced early this morning.

The Lions brought the petition before the college executive board through their representative, Dave Whitford.

Whitford announced that the Lions would also attempt to reserve a division of the stands for the rooting section.

Parents and even grand-parents are now given the opportunity to take regular college courses and earn university degrees in afternoon study under a new adult education plan developed at the University of Southern California.

Yearling's Defeat Of Citrus Jaysee Gives Them Odds

Cookmen to Employ Open Speedy Aerial Attack

May the walls of Troy remain unmolested!

So ordains the thundering herd of the University of Southern California freshmen who embark tonight 75 strong to bump heads with Coach Bill Cook's junior college Dons. Under the arcs of the Municipal Bowl at 8 p. m. the scarlet and black banner of El Don will bend every effort to fly full mast atop Troy's so called impenetrable wall.

Not in many a season have the Trojan freshmen had such a powerful team with a galaxy of former prep stars in every department. The yearlings boast a 13-6 victory over the Citrus jaysee Owls, a potential leader in the Eastern Division conference.

Triple threat Orville Mathews, a "9.6" man from Oklahoma will lead Coach "Hobbs" Adams' Trobabs into battle along with Ambrose Shindler, of San Diego, a spectacular back who scored both touchdowns against Citrus. Other stars of past high school fame will grace a 190 pound line, the heaviest the Dons will be up against this year. Being outweighed approximately 15 pounds per man, the Cookmen, however, have confidence in their ability to stem the tide of the rambling Trojans. Last year's game at the Coliseum favored the frosh six to nothing, with the Dons victorious the year preceding, seven to nothing. This is the eighth meeting of Santa Ana's greatest non-conference rivals.

Coach Cook will send a fleet backfield combination of Herbert, quarter, Hickman and Lendhardt halves, and Moore, fullback, who are expected to repeat their aerial maneuvers displayed against Pomona college last week. On the shoulders of a 175 pound forward will rest the responsibility of stopping the freshmen attack. The absence of Youel and Bragg, both centers, who were injured in the Pomona fracas, will see either Minder or Spray at the pivot position.

A public address system, distribution of programs, and yell leaders will add color to tonight's show.

Say, "I saw it in El Don."

Hammond, Swass, and Phillips Holders of Teaching Record

Of the 35 men and women now composing the faculty of Santa Ana junior college only Director D. K. Hammond, Miss Mary Swass of the language department, and Ernest Crozier Phillips of the English department, have been here continuously since the college was established in 1915.

Miss Swass received her B. S. degree at the University of California in 1908. She took graduate work at National university of Mexico in 1923, and later taught in Watsonville, Calif. and Redding, Calif. high schools.

Southern California and Santa Ana lured Miss Swass to a position of instructor at Santa Ana high school in 1913. She remained there until the organization of the present local junior college, at which time she became an educator of that institution.

Mr. Phillips graduated from the Mommock school of expression in 1905, years later to attend Oxford university, England, in 1927. Besides receiving professional experience on repertoire with Madame Modjeska, Mr. Phillips also a student of Garnet Holmes and Richard Burton.

After directing the Santa Ana community players for seven years, Mr. Phillips became a member of the teaching staff of Santa Ana high school, and remained in that capacity until 1915, when he joined the faculty of Santa Ana jaysee.

Director Hammond has also been associated with the college since its first year, serving as dean and president of the college before assuming his college directorial duties this year. Before coming to Santa Ana, Mr. Hammond was instructor in modern languages at San Diego State Teachers college. Previous to this time, Mr. Hammond attended Dartmouth university and received his A. B. degree.

Prospects Dine With Bachelors

Approximately thirty-five prospective members were entertained by the Brotherhood of Bachelors at a rush party given last night at the home of Vernon Koepsel, Lemon heights.

This was followed by the presentation of the club officers and the new adviser, Al Reboin, by Mansur. Otto Grigg '34, prominent Bachelor alumnus, then gave a talk on the purpose and traditions of the Brotherhood.

This was followed by a feed in the back yard given by the members consisting of chili beans, tamales, coffee, and orange sherbert ice cream. Afterwards about everyone participated in card games, pool, or just getting acquainted.

Flints Enjoy Summer's Trip Touring European Continents

Bicycling in England and Holland and a visit to the Supreme court of Russia at Kiev were among the events which made Mr. and Mrs. Calvin C. Flint's fifth summer vacation in Europe a pleasant one.

Leaving Santa Ana by auto the middle of June, the Flints drove to the Atlantic coast where they sailed for Europe on the new French liner, Normandie. Upon arriving in England, their first stopping place the couple were invited to the House of Commons by special invitation.

After cycling in Holland, the local couple went to Berlin, Germany, where they spent two weeks. They next visited the Polish corridor.

They were required to remain at Danzig for 18 days to get their visa to Russia, after which they toured Memel, Latvia, and Estonia, which country, Mr. Flint said, is the most economical and most novel he had ever visited.

One month was spent in Russia visiting such places as Leningrad, Moscow, and Nizni Novorod, location of the Ford automobile factory in the U. S. S. R.

Going down the Volga river to Kazan and back through southern Europe by way of Poland, Southern Germany, and Belgium, to the coast, the Flint's sailed for home on the Ile de France.

They arrived in Santa Ana September 6.

Shepard Designs New Tavern Post Covers

This year's Tavern Post covers were designed by Dave Shepard. The Tavern Post is edited by the Tavern Tattlers, honorary literary society of the college. It contains the literary works of the students of the school.

Shepard also designed the cover and title page of the 1935-36 college catalogue. He was also the originator of the original El Don name plate. He has charge of placing all announcements on the bulletin board, and all display work in connection with advertising.

Before dinner the time was spent at card games. Dinner was served by club members at 7:30. The rest of the evening was spent at cards and other games.

The next meeting will be held to determine the prospective pledges of the organization. According to Dolan this list will be given to Calvin C. Flint today.

Buccaneers are in charge of the sports at the picnic Monday and are sponsoring the first annual Inter-club regatta.

According to word released by Charles Roemer, Associated Student president this morning, the Executive board has passed an action to admit all children under twelve years of age to the Padre football games for ten cents.

Roemer stated that the children should come to gate number 1 for admittance at that rate and that they would be required to sit on the south side of the field behind the goal posts.
